HIS PURPOSE

Kathy

We have all struggled with something. My home as a child was filled with confusion and fear, living under the violence of an alcoholic father. What we learn from our trials and how we grow is fulfillment of God's purpose; to make us more like Jesus as we reach other people. As I struggled to find some reason in life God brought me to a place where I loved the broken, like me, and desired to serve.

I married a Godly man and stood beside him for many years in ministry. We loved and served the people of Thailand. I was particularly drawn to the women and felt like a sister to many of them. It didn't seem to matter that I was from a different land, a different culture or spoke an unfamiliar language, we connected in a way that bridges all boundaries between women who care.

After many years we returned to the United States and my identity began to change. My husband no longer needed me as his partner in ministry and my children were growing up. I suddenly found myself struggling again; to find the “purpose” God would now have for me.

When an opportunity came to take grief counseling classes I jumped at the chance. I didn't even know why other than the Holy Spirit stirring inside of me. As I completed the training I began to think about people suffering from grief. To my surprise the female prisoner came to mind. As I thought about the broken families, drug destruction and early death related to criminal behavior my heart became glued to the idea of reaching the incarcerated women. Yet, this was a place I had never been. How would I begin?

Our mighty God had it all worked out. Shortly thereafter a woman mentioned to me that the local Daughters of Destiny team needed volunteers to help with weekly Life Groups in the Arizona prison. I was approved as a volunteer and began my new journey.

As I spend time each week with the ladies God uses me tremendously. There is so much turmoil in their lives. Many are grieving over the loss of children, of the misguided love they thought was true and a life that was lost and must now be found. They struggle to let go and forgive how they have hurt others and been hurt.

These girls are just like us, looking for what is real and will give them life. When they come to Jesus and the light comes on they need guidance and love. My Bible is marked and worn as I'm sure is yours. He has been with me a long time. And now, to be the hands and feet of Jesus in this vineyard, is the purpose the drives me for such a time as this. ✨

Women 4 Women

Would you like to share your faith with a woman inside, but don't feel led to go into a prison? Well, Women-4-Women discipleship correspondence may be right for you. Many ladies who come to faith in Jesus Christ while inside prison want a spiritual sister to help them grow. Someone she may ask questions of and share her struggles and triumphs with. Have you sat at the feet of Christ for years and learned to walk in His ways? You could be a tremendous blessing to a new sister in Christ. Please go to our website at www.daughtersofdestiny.org. Get Involved to find out more about this wonderful program and fill out the volunteer application for W4W.

And my God will supply all your needs according to His riches in glory in Christ Jesus. (Philippians 4:19)

Daughters of Destiny equips, trains, and empowers volunteers to reach incarcerated women for Jesus and to disciple them while in prison and after release.

Daughters FREE

Araceli Araceli believed all the lies; no value, unloved, alone and rejected. "Looking for love I married young, but it was a very abusive marriage. Illegal drugs became my medicine." Then burglaries and jail sealed the deal. She was gone; considered done by the world and in her own mind. Sitting in the county jail Araceli was angry and felt totally alone. Then she noticed a girl in the cell reading a book. "What ya reading?" she asked.

The girl answered, "The Bible, ever read it?" Araceli told her she hadn't. "She began to read to me and helped me understand what the book was saying about God." A week later Araceli went into a service at the jail and accepted Jesus as her savior. "It was the turning point of my life." Ladies came in to the jail and mentored her until her release.

Araceli is now living the Destiny God has for her. "I know that because of His truth and love I now work for the state of California and serve in ministry reaching those still struggling. Thank you Jesus!"

Sandra Sandra was in and out of jails and prisons for years before she found a church that knew how to reach her. "They showed me the REAL love and forgiveness of Jesus." Her whole life Sandra had been told she was worthless while receiving physical, sexual and emotional abuse, even into her marriage. "Ironically I once had a dream of becoming a Police Officer, was trained in law enforcement and worked in a jail." But after falling into a life of drugs and alcohol, Sandra was locked up in that same jail over 25 times.

Since Sandra gave her life to Jesus and made Him Lord she has been back to that Jail as a witness to what GOD can and does do in the lives of His Daughters. "I know He has called me to minister to these women. What was once meant to destroy me is now of value as I counsel my sisters." Sandra also serves as coordinator in a Christian Re-entry Coalition and mentors women leaving prison. "I have been healed, transformed and am now a Daughter of Destiny reaching back to share what Jesus did for me!"
